INSTANT ICE PACKS | THERMAL SHOULDER SUPPORT

Thermotherapy (heat therapy) is a procedure that involves the application of superficial heat to alleviate muscle stiffness, chronic pain and tension, as well as promote increased blood circulation to speed up recovery. Heat therapy can be used multiple times a day if needed.

Cryotherapy (cold therapy) involves the use of extreme cold to reduce swelling, inflammation, and ease acute pain after an injury or surgery. Cold therapy can be used multiple times a day during the initial stages of an injury or to manage swelling and inflammation.

STEEL DESIGN

The Myofascial Release Tool is expertly designed to target various areas of the body, addressing specific muscle groups to provide unparalleled relief from muscle pain while enhancing range of motion. With its uniquely contoured sections, this tool is engineered with the principles of myofascial in mind, applying precision pressure to the fascia – the connective tissue surrounding the muscles – to alleviate discomfort and increase mobility.

Featuring full hand and finger grip holes for ease of use and optimal control, this tool stands as a trusted choice for physiotherapists, chiropractors, and massage therapists. Excelling in instrument-assisted soft tissue mobilisation (IASTM), the Myofascial Release Tool boasts a stainless-steel design with bevelled edges to penetrate deeply into muscles to mobilise restricted fascia and release myofascial trigger points.

Distributed exclusively by Medinox, Econocare provides affordable, high-quality medical products that are carefully crafted to help retailers, medical practitioners, and consumers overcome budget constraints without compromising on care.

EMERGENCY BURN CARE DRESSING

The Opulab Emergency Burn Care Dressing represents a pinnacle in advanced wound care technology, meticulously designed to address the multifaceted needs of burn treatment. Impregnated with a specialised hydrogel formulation, the dressing offers immediate pain relief, optimises healing conditions, and provides robust protection against secondary complications such as infection. Upon application, the hydrogel formulation absorbs excess heat from the burn site, creating an instant cooling effect that alleviates discomfort while stabilising damaged tissue. The hydrogel layer ensures that the wound remains adequately hydrated, fostering an environment that is conducive to epithelial regeneration, while significantly reducing recovery times. This combination of soothing relief and accelerated healing makes the Opulab Emergency Burn Care Dressing indispensable for treating a variety of burn injuries, including first-degree burns, second-degree burns, and scalds.
